

NORTH TORONTO BASEBALL CAMP

Alex Day
CAMP DIRECTOR

Five friends, who grew up playing and coaching baseball together, created the North Toronto Baseball Camp in 2005. “We felt that growing up playing organized sports like baseball really shaped our personalities and taught us about sportsmanship and teamwork,” Alex Day says. “Starting a baseball camp was a natural progression and was an opportunity to share our passion for the sport with young enthusiastic campers.”

Day and the other camp directors strive to create an environment where kids can make friends, have fun, learn baseball and improve their skills. “For kids, it provides an incredible opportunity to meet new people and forge lasting relationships with other campers,” he says.

Back when Day was still a camper, he felt inspired by his coaches and aims to do the same today. “It’s important to have young role models. As their coaches, the campers look up to us. We teach them that baseball is about more than hitting home-runs and striking batters out: it’s about how you respect and trust your teammates,” he says.
